

HARDWARE

The newer style receiver is a Westport receiver. There are two models of this style currently in use.

The DDR-IPB1 has a digital display. When the system is functioning normally it will display -WRA-, EsNo 10.0 (or greater), and AGC 230. The normal range for AGC on our systems is 230-250. While being lower than 230 is not an issue, if the AGC is higher than 250 the Customer Response Center should be contacted to troubleshoot. If there is an issue with the receiver it will generally display No Data or No Signal and emit a beep every few seconds.

The newest receiver, the DDR-MPE1, is identical in appearance to the DDR-IPB1, and performs the same.

QUESTIONS CORNER

Q: I lost the email with my BEN Newsletter. How can I get another one?

A: All BEN Newsletters are posted on the Brunswick web site. You can go to any computer, including your home computer, with internet access to retrieve a previous newsletter. The Brunswick web site is <http://www.brunswickbowling.com/>. Click on the blue Bowling Products Equipment and Support side. Scroll down to Center Service and Support on the left side and click the link to enter that section. A page with a green banner across the top will display. You can hover your mouse over the Resources heading and a menu will drop down. On that menu is the link for the BEN Newsletter and Music Video Release. Clicking the link will display all the newsletters in PDF format. The full link to this section of the website is <http://www.brunswickbowling.com/resources2/ben-newsletter-and-music-video-release2?noCache=535:1213798368>.

NOTE: You will need the Adobe reader program installed in order to open the newsletter. If you do not have that program, it can be downloaded free from www.adobe.com.

MUSIC VIDEO UPDATE

The new version of music & videos is being released at this time. You should see the new music videos become available on your system in the next 10 days. When new music videos are added to the system, others must be removed due to hard drive space constraints. Those music videos removed are the least popular ones selected throughout the Brunswick Entertainment Network. Please refer to the two included lists of new and removed music videos. You may need to update your custom play lists to remove music videos that are no longer available.

NOTE: Always be aware of the rating assigned to the videos when adding new selections to your custom playlists.

If there are any questions or concerns, please contact the Brunswick Customer Response Center at 800-937-2695.

To determine if your center has received the new update, you may check the BEN website, located at www.brunswickentertainment.com. When you log in with your center ID and password, the Network Home page will display the version your center has.
